Join us on October 21st, 2024, at 6 p.m. CET / 7 p.m. EAT for an online discussion on the role of Generation Z in Tanzania's political landscape.

Recent events, like the arrests in the context of the Youth Congress of Tanzania's largest opposition party CHADEMA in August, raise questions about the political engagement of young Tanzanians. We want to have a look at the broader context, such as the protests in Kenya and how they resonate with young Tanzanians:

- How politically active is Tanzania's Gen Z, and what are their main expectations from the government?
- What opportunities for political participation are there for young people in Tanzania?
- How does global networking and digitalization influence the political attitudes of young people around the world? How much do young Tanzanians engage in global movements like Fridays for Future?

Guests:

- Elsie Eyakuze, Journalist and Columnist
- Abel Simon, Graduate of the University of Dar es Salaam

Moderation: Dorcas Parsalaw (Tanzania Network e.V.)
